MONDAY MORNING, NOV [illegible]

THE 'ADVERTISER' AGAIN TROUBLED

Habeas Corpus has struck in there and is in trouble. Some Lawyers and Judges of the District of Columbia have taken the practice of issuing writs of habeas corpus with the design of staying the movements of the military arm of the Government. They have learned that the surest way to weaken the Government, when the people are pressed by the enemy and when they call for men to strike their rebellious blows most successfully at its heart. The President, in pursuance of the powers vested in him and which have been sanctioned by Congress has suspended the writ of habeas corpus in the District of Columbia. Of course no one complains of this except traitors, and the sympathisers with treason.

DEATH OF GEN EDWARD D BAKER.—The first news dispatch transmitted across the continent entirely by telegraph, brings the intelligence of the fall of Senator Baker in battle. Besides the sense of affliction with which the public feel at the loss of an honored statesman and gallant soldier many in Oregon suffer the keenest arrow to enter into the heart at the decease of an esteemed personal friend, as genial in manner as fascinating in conversation. To his desolated mother and the whole family, no words of condolence from human lips can offer a balm for the wounds of love powered grief.

He has poured out his life blood in behalf of his country in its darkest hour of danger, which will secure to him more than the blessings of the present and all the future. But not alone for this is he entitled to our regard, perhaps too charily bestowed by his contemporaries. He has served the world more faithfully than most who have been better paid. From orphanage and poverty he struggled his way upward hardly by the proudest position within the reach of an adopted citizen. He succeeded not by scheming as a professional politician but by the patient tread and routine of business. Habeas Corpus thought it on perception exactness in reading in every document it knowledge and the capacity to centre all his energies in a single end, were characteristic of the man.

That which might be esteemed flattery if spoken of the living must be recognized justice to the departed. As a popular orator he has had few equals in any land or in any age. He was fervid above that vehemence of manner and wordy turbulence which sometimes carry captive the judgment with great temporary effect. A perfect master of the art of delivery of great effects with a memory as faithful as a tablet of marble, a storehouse of fact so extensive with all that he had seen or heard or read, a fountain of wit, and a treasure and inexhaustible play ful or biting as occasion required—it is not wonderful that he should receive the loudest plaudits at every appearance. He adopted much study of judiciary [illegible] understand his skill in strategy [illegible] charge order. A [illegible] with out fear and without reproach. [illegible] statesman he has done much to [illegible] arm of Secession to the Pacific coast. His record on the current literature of the times is worthy of the proudest. His name will descend to history among the [illegible] dead of 1861 as a great [illegible] the Moloch of Disunion.—Oregonian.

THE FOUR VETERANS.—We learn from Mr Virgil W Newsom that the following veterans, who came through this city a few days more ago, have arrived at their [illegible] started without money—they were not furnished with means—but by [illegible] they were enabled to reach their destination. He writes. Our company is nearly full. I hope the young men of Oregon will [illegible] to their country's call, and come forward and fill out the company. The pay is certain, and the outpost of this new country must be defended.

ORDER TO EXTEND COMMENCE CANVASS SUSPENDED.—The Statesman states that an order has been made by proper [illegible] through Lieut. Col. [illegible] suspend the enlistment [illegible] at the Dalles of which A. P. [illegible] recruiting officer.
